CHICAGO, July 22.—President Roosevelt had Senator Harry S. Truman, of Missouri, as a running-mate today to seek a fourth term against the Republican ticket of Dewey and Bricker in the first wartime presidential campaign since Abraham Lincoln's era.

Truman gained the vice-presidential nomination at the Democratic National convention in an unprecedented manner, by actually winning after the second roll-call was completed.

There was one major significance to Truman's victory. It marked the utter rout of the C.I.O. labor leaders who attempted to step into the Democratic party and control the convention. Defeat of the C.I.O. leaders, however, may have repercussions in the election but the victorious regular party chiefs were unimpressed, declaring the labor groups would have to support Roosevelt because they had nowhere else to go.

Truman's smashing success marked the political demise of Vice President Henry Agard Wallace, idealist and humanitarian, who failed of nomination even after Mr. Roosevelt wrote of him, "I personally would vote for his renomination if I were a delegate to the convention." The regular Democrats made it plain there was no place for Wallace in their scheme of politics.

Truman was elected by his victory. His first remark was, "I am about as dizzy as a pin ball." He said he would resign as chairman of the Senate War Fraud Investigating Committee and added that in the campaign:

"I shall do what the commander-in-chief wants me to do."

Wallace Undaunted
He asserted that in his race for renomination, "The cause of liberalism has been further advanced—my own personal defeat is not a loss of liberalism." He declared:

"Roosevelt is the symbol of liberalism in the western world and he must be supported in the war and in the emergency of the peace to come."

There are a lot of Monday morning political quarterbacks roaming Chicago today trying to explain Wallace's defeat when he appeared to be a favorite in the convention and actually lost on the first roll call. It is not sufficient to say that CHICAGO, July 22.—Pennsylvania Democratic State Chairman Guffey, declared today that the nomination of Sen. Harry S. Truman as the party's running mate with President Roosevelt for the November elections means the state will cast an even greater majority for Mr. Roosevelt this fall than it did in 1940.

Truman's victory, the nomination of Truman, whose cause he had espoused among the Pennsylvania delegates, Lawrence asserted:

"Bigger Majority
Majority to the President this year than it did four years ago with Truman on the ticket. We are going home now to wage the most vigorous campaign we know how to place Pennsylvania in the Democratic column this November."

At the same time, Lawrence declared:

German Uprising Sounds Nazi Doom

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGE
(Written Especially for U.S.S.)

Most important news of the war today deals with the revolutionary outbreak in Germany centering around the attempt to assassinate Adolf Hitler, first sounding of the trump of doom for the Nazi reichsfuehrer on the home front.

Taken with the recent upset of Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo, this furnishes unmistakable evidence of the development of a process that always occurs in a dictatorship towards the end of an unsuccessful war, the cracking of popular morale which inevitably ends in revolution and defeat.

Just what occurred in Berlin is obscure and will probably remain so for a long time.

Plants Bomb
What seems established beyond doubt, is that Col. Graf Von Stauffenberg, hitherto believed to be a devoted adherent to Nazism, placed a bomb on the spot Hitler was scheduled to occupy in a broadcasting studio at the fuhrer's headquarters.

Only the accidental shifting by six or eight feet of the microphone saved the Nazi dictator from being blown to bits. Fragments of the bomb killed at least one of Hitler's attendant officers, wounded several others.

This much has been stated repeatedly by Nazi propaganda broadcasts and confirmed by dispatches from neutral sources. What lay behind the bombing is not so clear, but accounts, though conflicting in details, indicate that there was a well developed plot to take over

Normandy Front Bugged By Rain

Yanks Cut Important St. Lo-Perriers Highway, Little Battle Action

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

SUPREMACY HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 22.—Troops of the American First Army have cut the strategic highway linking the Normandy communication centers of St. Lo and Perriers, headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower revealed today.

The roadway was cut four miles west-northwest of St. Lo. Severance of the road was revealed by a headquarters spokesman after issuance of the shortest communique since the start of the campaign in France.

Nothing To Report
"There is nothing to report," the text of the communique said.

Its brevity was explainable because of the fact that up to last evening heavy rains had fallen across the battlefield for 36 hours making advances anywhere except on hard-surfaced roads impossible.

The weather was said to continue bad.

The headquarters spokesman revealed that the British have given up the town of Equay on the Orne river front southwest of Caen.

Other units of the British Second Army were reported pressing southward south and east of Caen despite the unfavorable weather.

The plains beyond Caen were flooded by a driving rainstorm which turned the battlefield into a lake of slime.

Guam Beachheads Are Established; Nimitz Reports

American Forces Grimly Determined To Take Back Jap Seized Island

JAP RESISTANCE IS STIFFENING

By RICHARD V. HALLER
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, July 22.—United States Marines and Infantry troops quickly established two beachheads on Guam Thursday following seventeen consecutive days of intense aerial and naval bombardments which obviously knocked out the enemy's first line of defense.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed that the liberating Yank forces landed on strategic Guam, a front line dispatch from John R. Henry, International News Service war correspondent aboard a Navy flagship, reported that two beachheads were carved out on the west side of the island.

Port Apra Objective
Henry placed the beachheads north and south of the Orate peninsula which guards the entrance to Port Apra, one of the finest harbors in the world, where the United States Navy once planned to build a naval base and has returned to build an offensive weapon to strike at the heart of Japan.

The initial phase of the battle to reconquer Guam apparently was aimed at the capture of Port Apra with American forces streaming inland from "wood" beaches on either side of the great Pacific harbor.

"The northern beachhead," Henry reported, "stretched in an arc several thousand yards. The southern beachhead, which he described as 'substantial' and crisscrossed with men and the implements of war, was in the vicinity of the 'shattered' town of Agat."

Admiral Nimitz announced that marines and soldiers stormed onto Guam's beaches in the face of light local Japanese resistance.

Seventeen days of sustained pre-invasion aerial and naval bombardments had crippled the enemy's shore defenses, permitting the first and succeeding assault waves to

Bradley Enjoined From Operating 'Auto Graveyard'

Opinion Is Handed Down In Action Brought By Supervisor Of Neshannock Township

In an opinion handed down this morning by Judge W. Walter Brahm, in the case of the Township of Neshannock vs. Harry Bradley, the latter is enjoined from conducting his business of dismantling and wrecking autos at his present place of business on the Wilmington road, Neshannock township, just outside the city limits, or at any other location in said township, and the costs in the case are placed upon Bradley.

Under an act of the State legislature, passed in 1929, township supervisors are given permission to prohibit the accumulation of rubbish such as usually is found about such places, on private or public property, and the carrying on of manufacturing businesses which are an offense to the public, and authorizing the supervisors to bring action in court against such establishments.

The Neshannock township supervisors passed a resolution forbidding the conduct of such businesses within the confines of the township and later brought action against Bradley to have his business discontinued.

STATE CHAIRMAN CLAIMS VICTORY FOR FDR-TRUMAN

nied suggestions that the Truman victory in yesterday's hectic Democratic convention session might mean a change in Pennsylvania Democratic ranks.

Although the commonwealth finally cast all 70 of its available free votes for Truman, two delegates were absent, a substantial number of Pennsylvania delegates, led by U. S. Sen. Joseph Guffey, first supported Vice President Henry A. Wallace for re-nomination.

Lawrence and Guffey had been in opposition all week on the vice presidential issue and the suggestion was that whatever candidate defeated would find himself out on the proverbial limb with his opponent riding high in the saddle.

Lawrence, however, waved that aside, insisting that the party was united in the state; that all still was harmonious between him and Guffey, and that Pennsylvania Democrats would present a solid front for the November battle.

No split in leadership, he insisted. "Everybody will be together. That was agreed upon before this convention began and we're sticking to it."

But there was no doubt that the Pennsylvania chairman was a pleased man. Worried as the vice presidential bidding began yesterday, Lawrence paced nervously on the convention platform while Guffey watched development with a hawk-like eye. Only when it began to rain and began smiling.

Guffey disappeared quickly from the stadium once he saw the end was inevitable, but before he left, Truman shook him by the hand.

"Joe, you and I are as good friends as ever," the new nominee said.

Stronger, but I was wrong," replied Guffey, shaking his head sadly.

Pennsylvania cast 45½ votes for Wallace and 23½ for Truman on the first vice presidential roll call and 46 for Wallace and 24 for Truman on the second, eventually joining the bandwagon with 70 votes. The two absent delegates were I. Dana Kahle and W. A. Walker, who other Pennsylvanians said, had returned home.

Kane Seconds

John J. Kane, Truman booster from Allegheny county, seconded the Missourian for the nomination earlier.

"I speak not for Pennsylvania, but for the friends of Truman in the delegation," he said. "I don't know Senator Truman personally, but I know his record. He has made the greatest contribution to the armed forces of any man in the United States and by his record of achievement and accomplishment has proved himself the man we want for vice president of these United States."

Meanwhile, the bulk of the Pennsylvania delegates, and alternates were preparing to return home today. Former Judge John H. Wilson, chairman of the delegation summed up the attitude of many of them. "We're very happy over the selection of the ticket," he said.

the garrison of Berlin by anti-Nazi forces, with nation-wide ramifications that have led to considerable fighting in the provinces, particularly in East Prussia and North Italy.

Outstanding fact is that Hitler himself in a broadcast immediately after the attempted killing, referred to the existence of a revolutionary clique within the German army as being responsible for the attempt on his life. This brings into the open for the time the fact, long known and repeatedly referred to in this column, that widespread opposition to the Fuehrer exists within the ranks of the most highly placed members of Germany's officers' corps.

Widespread Purge

According to reports from neutral sources, the immediate result of the attempt on Hitler's life was a widespread purge conducted throughout all Germany by Heinrich Himmler's police of officers and civilians known or believed to be enemies of the Nazi regime. Dispatches from Switzerland state that a total of 34 German generals have been placed under "protective arrest."

Chief among those arrested are Field Marshal Walther Von Brauns, German chief of staff at the war's outbreak and Marshal Karl Gerd Von Rundstedt, until recently commanding officer of Nazi defensive forces in France. Reported as executed, is Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck.

Confidential advice have long classed these officers as being opposed to Hitler's leadership. Indeed it was widely reported at the time of Von Rundstedt's removal from command in Normandy that this officer had expressed himself openly as being in favor of the immediate opening of peace negotiations with the American-British Allies.

Victory Impossible

Such views undoubtedly exist widely among educated German officers. It is perfectly clear to such men that German victory is no longer possible. With the ice-cold logic of their class they believe that Germany should attempt to make the best possible bargain for peace while she still has some bargaining power left. And they feel that the best possibility of bargaining is with America and Britain. Such views may have led to their being involved in the recent plot. Much more likely, Nazi leadership is using the bombing as an excuse for liquidating the entire anti-Hitler faction among the army's officer-corps.

Statements and opinions herein are private to the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the navy department.

presumed that the two submarines were overdue from patrols against Japanese shipping.

Skipper of the Trout at the time she disappeared was Com. Albert H. Clark, whose wife lives at 35 Irvine Drive, Orinda, Calif.

The Tullibee was commanded by Commander Charles Frederic Brindup, whose wife lives at 5 Murray Avenue, Annapolis, Md.

Loss of the Trout and Tullibee resulted in 27 the number of American submarines lost to date and to 171 the total number of naval vessels lost.

The Trout and its early war-time crew won honor and decorations from both the army and navy when she slipped into Manila Bay early in February 1942, with anti-aircraft ammunition for the defenders of Corregidor.

Skipper at the time of the hazardous exploit was Lt. Com. Frank W. Fenno, Jr., of 67 Main street, West Minister, Mass.

Off Corregidor

Fenno and the crew of the Trout spent two nights off Corregidor loading the valuables into the submarine and then the undersea craft slipped through the Pacific to a rendezvous with a cruiser which brought the gold and other cargo to the United States.

Ironically Clark the present skipper of the Trout who was listed as missing received the silver star for his part of the exploit of the submarine, prior to the fall of Corregidor.

Clark also received the legion of merit in recognition of his conduct during a skillful attack on a Japanese warship which resulted in the destruction of the enemy craft.

The Trout at one time received the presidential unit citation for sinking a total of 43,200 tons of enemy shipping and damaging another 31,200 tons, including a Japanese aircraft carrier.

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS)—The race-relations plank of the Democratic platform was condemned today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Walter White, secretary for the group, said the statement was "dictated by northern political machines" and weakened because the Democratic party was "badgered by professional bigots from the south."

At the same time, Mrs. Moses P. Epstein, national president of Hadassah, said the Palestine issue had been taken out of politics since the Democratic plank on the subject was similar to the stand taken by the Republicans.

RUSSIANS CROSS OVER BUG RIVER; HEAD FOR WARSAW

had disclosed the capture of Ostrov, Nazi stronghold and great communications center.

The high command said that troops of the Third Baltic front at night went over to the offensive in the Ostrov direction and broke through the northern sector of the German's defense zone called by them the "Panther line." Developing their successful offensive the Russian forces captured the town of Ostrov by storm. These forces seized more than 150 other towns and villages.

The Russian communique reported continued successes near the outflanked German strongholds of Lwow and Brest-Litovsk.

Nine advancing Russian armies pushed the Nazis back from Finland to the edge of Lwow, capturing nearly 500 towns and villages along the 800-mile front.

Near Lwow, Soviet fighters captured more than 100 inhabited localities including six railway stations in their continued advances.

Costly To Nazis

In the Brest-Litovsk area, Russian hordes took the Brest-Litovsk province district center town of Divin and seized the Volhynian province district center of Shatsk.

More than 100 other towns and villages, plus two railroad stations were taken by the Red army in this area.

West and southwest of Vladimir, just south of the great drive across the Bug river, Russian troops took over 100 towns in an advance.

Soviet fighters in Finland advanced on the Karelian front to seize more than 40 towns and villages west of the town of Suojarvi.

During the day of Russian advances and highly costly fighting for the retreating Hitler forces, more than 2,000 Nazi prisoners were taken by the Soviets and more than 100 guns were captured.

NOMINATION COMES AFTER ROLL CALL ON SECOND BALLOT

Truman's managers held back some votes because Wallace's managers did that too. Both gained on the second ballot and Truman was far from a winner when that roll call ended.

On the first ballot, Wallace had 429, while Truman had 319. At the end of the second roll call, Wallace had 400, while Truman had 409, but seven states had passed. When these seven voted, Wallace had 473 and Truman 479. Then Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, withdrew and that state gave Truman one more vote for a total of 501. That seemed to finish the roll call for certain.

But the chairman of the Maine delegation then arose and announced that his state would like to change its vote. He did so, changing the original tally of four votes for Wallace and six for Truman to one for Wallace and nine for Truman. That left the totals: Wallace 470 and Truman 504.

McNutt Retires

Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, retired, and his votes went to Truman, along with four of Wallace's in that state. Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, retired, and eight more went to Truman. The District of Columbia, New York with 93 of its 96 Ohio with 45 of its 52 and finally West Virginia slid into Truman's column and he was the winner.

The final roll call was Truman 1,074, Wallace, 666. Governor Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, 26; William O. Douglas of Connecticut, 4 and 6 delegates were recorded absent.

This contest between Wallace and Truman was a battle between the New Dealers of the administration, aided by the CIO and the "big city" bosses of the party, helped by old-time Democratic regulars. Beneath all the early maneuvering there was no really solid convention desire to nominate Truman but there was deep resentment against the CIO and trying to muscle in on the management of the Democratic party. Actually Truman didn't want to be a candidate.

The contest in itself might have ended in favor of the New Dealers and the CIO leaders, Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray. But three things happened in the 24 hours before the final ballot.

Wallace Speech

One was a speech by Wallace, seconding the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. In it, Wallace enthusiastically demanded repeal of the poll tax. Many observers believe he doomed his cause with that remark. Action of the Chicago CIO in packing the convention hall with students and workers, shouting in Wallace's behalf and thus interfering with an orderly proceeding, also angered many delegates.

Second, the crowd yesterday, again largely recruited from Chicago left wing students and workers, booed Mayor Edward J. Kelly, one of the big city bosses but one beloved throughout the party, when he tried to second the nomination of Senator Scott Lucas, of Illinois. This further angered a great many delegates.

The final blow to Wallace may well have been a speech by Richard Frankenstein, CIO leader from Detroit, denouncing Democratic "city bosses" and pleading with delegates from all other places to join the Wallace banner.

It remained for tiny Maine—far from the control of big city bosses—to start the avalanche that swept the CIO leaders and Wallace out of power in this convention.

establish their beachheads in record time.

Casualties Moderate

Preliminary reports, Admiral Nimitz' communique said, indicated that our casualties were moderate but increasing resistance was being encountered in some areas as the American assault forces pressed inland.

Carrier rocket planes and bombers hammered Guam's defenses and other installations with thousands of tons of explosives during the smashing softening-up assault.

A new advance east of Camranh, undoing a torrent of flaming steel on the Jap-held island up to the moment of landings, augmented the mighty aerial smashes in the last week of attacks preceding invasion.

The crushing power of the pre-invasion aerial blows was revealed in the official announcement that 627 tons of bombs and 147 giant rockets were slammed against Guam's defenses in a single day—July 19—the day preceding landing operations.

Camp Rentz Boys Nearing Weekend

Another Week Of Camping At Y.M.C.A. Camp Is Drawing To A Close

Thursday proved another great day at the Fred L. Rentz Y.M.C.A. camp along Slippery Rock Creek, with the boys making the most of every moment of the week, fast drawing to a close.

Some upsets were seen in the contests staged during the day. The bulldozers upset the dope bucket by trimming the Super-Elephants in baseball and volleyball.

Thunderbolts split even with the Helldivers, winning at baseball only to lose to the Helldivers in volleyball. Following the games, the boys enjoyed a period of swimming. The sun was out bright and strong and the boys were glad to stay in the water.

In the afternoon the campers went boating and this was followed by the afternoon games.

In the early part of the evening, capture the flag was enjoyed, then the campers all went up to see their picked all-stars trim the counselors, 6 to 2. Dick Snow hurried the campers stay in an easy victory, he had the counselors' ball, until the last inning, when he was touched for three hits, one a double that drove in the only two runs the counselors could get. The stars were led by Snow, Braham, McVaine, Shira and Calderero. In fact the team as a whole was just too much for the leaders.

While the leaders were only able to get four hits from Dick Snow, Hamilton and Stokes gave away 12 hits.

Following the game the boys were treated to films shown by Jack Boyles. Taps and all quiet at 10 p. m. and a busy, happy day for the campers ended.

Nazi Labor Leader Uses Harsh Words

LONDON, July 22.—(INS)—Dr. Robert Ley, Nazi leader of the labor front, asserted today that "a mine of the heaviest type imported from Britain was used in the attempt to kill Hitler."

In a broadcast message from an armaments works, Ley said that he had received detailed information on how the attempt was made on Hitler's life.

"A Jew of Moscow ordered it," Ley said concerning the bomb and "England and her lords supplied it."

He accused German "counts and noblemen" whom he termed "blue-blooded swine" of plotting it.

"You see the reaction of Bolshevism arm in arm," Ley said. "Stalin and the German counts are all pats."

The fuhrer gave them everything they had a right to ask for and they thanked him with bombs, murder and ingratitude."

Pearl Harbor Inquiries

Creation by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy of two special boards of inquiry to investigate the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor has been announced. This action is in conformity with a congressional resolution which was a compromise of a proposal to force an immediate trial of Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Major General Walter C. Short, who stand accused of failing to be prepared for the attack.

These officers have suffered for more than thirty months under a stigma of accusation. They were relieved of their commands by the President and have not seen active service since that time. The administration defense of this failure to accord them the trial to which they are entitled under the American system of justice is that a trial might involve the national security.

The question whether or not the officers were guilty of negligence goes to the fundamental differences in the reports of Ambassador Grew, the State Department and the official administration statements. On the face of these reports, which were made following the report of the President's investigating committee, there is a grave implication that the President failed as commander-in-chief to coordinate his information in such a way as to forecast the Japanese intent.

In view of the possibility that a complete airing of all the evidence in the case might involve the President in responsibility for the disaster, it is unlikely that the fundamental question will be explored until after election. The newly created boards probably will not go beyond the sphere of sound judgment in decisions.

Vanishing Workers

In view of the Army's call to the War Production Board for faster deliveries of war materials so that the prosecution of the conflict will not be slowed, a factor termed the evaporation of labor assumes importance.

Labor evaporation is a term applied to the tendency of workers to disappear from the labor market when they quit their jobs. If fifty war plant workers quit their jobs in one town, it might be thought that they would accept jobs in a war plant in a neighboring town. But experts are discovering that only 25 to 30 of every 50 who quit are available for new jobs.

It seems that disappearing workers are: Taking jobs in less essential work, but with more of a peacetime future.

Moving away from war plant areas to return to their old homes.

Quitting work altogether, in the case of housewives to return to their housework, or in the case of men to take a long rest.

Multiplying this situation in one community by scores of instances and the result is a situation of serious proportions. A Washington executive says the patriotism of most of these disappearing workers cannot be questioned. "It means simply," he declared, "that the profit motive in our economy governs the actions of workers." That is, they will leave jobs that do not seem to offer a future.

Business Casualties

Bankers, credit managers, wholesalers and jobbers will testify that the Department of Commerce is correct in its statement that the business turnover is of "startling proportions."

Its statement was made in connection with its publication of figures showing that during the two years following Pearl Harbor, 1,073,000 business enterprises closed their doors while only 572,000 new businesses were launched.

The fact is that about half the new businesses opened, year in and year out, fail to achieve success. The story is about the same in most cases. A man of will, character and ambition saves his money with a view to going into business for himself. He may persuade relatives and friends to invest in his venture. He finally feels that he has the resources to begin operations. He works hard and he makes the best use of his capital. But as often as not he can not make a go of the business.

Most of these business casualties are traceable directly to the failure of the key man to estimate his competition. Often he is deluded by the common belief that all a man has to do to make good money is to contrive to get into business for himself.

Capital is by no means enough. Management must be skillful, courageous and untiring. The battle for markets is fierce. Latterly the struggle to survive against government meddling, overtaxation and silly regulation is a further handicap.

The man who can conduct a successful business in this atmosphere of natural hazard and government opposition is a valuable national asset and should be so respected and rewarded.

The Great Collapse

The war in Europe presses steadily and inexorably toward victory. Americans, British and Russians are more than a match for the Germans who are fighting hard but losing every engagement.

It is a tough war despite the victory headlines. Every emblazoned triumph has behind it hundreds, perhaps thousands, of personal tragedies, in the cities, towns and rural communities of the United States. It is difficult for Americans at home to conceive of the hardships and perils their sons endure to make victory possible.

The one thing that makes the situation endurable for those so anxious about their relatives is the fact that there is being witnessed the world's greatest military collapse. Nothing Berlin can say masks the truth that the Germans are being whittled dreadfully and finally. In the circumstances, Hindenburg and Ludendorff, would have sued for peace, hoping to preserve enough strength to launch another war after a period of recovery.

But Hitler and his henchmen, realizing peace will be their undoing, struggle on with the aid of their fanatical followers, hoping for that break which can never come. The war in Europe is going on to such complete victory, so complete that no opposition will remain now or will arise in years to come.

Those who fall are literally sacrificing their lives so that others will not die on battlefields. A menace to humankind is being unearthed and stubborn Nazi resistance makes it all the more certain that a root will remain.

Since the Communists are 100 per cent for a fourth term, it would have been fitting to name Browder as the running mate.

In his dual role as President and commander-in-chief, the fourth-term candidate will attempt to ride two horses while crossing a stream.

The man who has difficulty finding his rent money will be glad to know that the amount of cash in circulation in this country now is $5,000,000,000 greater than it was this time last year.

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS

CHICAGO—No one will long remember what has been said here. Nor will the clasp of personality that flowered briefly in headlines be recalled for much longer than it takes the ink to dry.

This was after all, only a ratification meeting. The fourth term could be presented only as an unhappy necessity called forth by the demands of the hour.

Granted all this, it still seems to me that the convention might have been directed in a way that would have left fewer hurt feelings at the end. Many of the delegates, and some of the vice-presidential candidates, will go home putting the blame on Chairman Robert E. Hannegan.

First Time
It was his first venture into big-time politics. Occasionally you had the impression that he was playing by ear—making up the score as he went along.

I'm not at all sure, however, that the blame should fall on Hannegan, although as the professional in charge of the show, he'll get it anyway. Hannegan was chosen by President Roosevelt to do the job.

Having picked his man Friday for the necessary chore of rounding up a majority in November, Roosevelt seems to have forgotten all about the business of politics. Just before the convention, the people around him complained about the difficulty of getting any decisions made. Questions that were almost certain to arise.

Indifferent may be the word to describe his attitude. Yet that may not be fair. After all he has something else to think about besides a political rally. The decisions he must make from day to day affect the course of the "greatest war in history."

Going Tough
Whatever it is—indifference, preoccupation with larger affairs—Roosevelt's attitude has made the going tough for his lieutenants. Necessarily they've had to play it safe, because the Maestro forgot to give out the music.

The chief sufferer appears to have been war mobilizer James F. Byrnes, whose relationship with the president could be described in the Biblical phrase, "good and faithful servant." Came out to Chicago as a vice-presidential candidate in the belief he had the endorsement of his chief. The race was to be wide open, and Byrnes, an astute politician, wanted to be in it.

Then suddenly he discovered he'd been mistaken. He retired "in deference to the president's wishes." It was a strange performance from a man who is as close to Roosevelt as anyone in the inner circle.

Of course, Byrnes is loyal and he will continue to be loyal. He left the supreme court to take on what he knew would be a thankless task as "assistant president."

But how easy to have avoided the mix-up! If Byrnes was unsatisfied because of his southern origins and the sensitivity of the negro vote, that surely could have been discovered well in advance of the Chicago meeting. A ten-minute talk with Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray should have made it crystal clear that they would not accept a southerner who had been co-author of a resolution condemning sit-down strikes.

Roosevelt Attitude
Roosevelt's attitude is extremely interesting. The opposition is likely to charge that his detachment from politics is part of the aloof commander-in-chief attitude. But I don't think that's true.

The president seems to feel that his own record will stand up regardless of what the future holds. He is confident of his position in history. Consequently, his attitude to the election is one of detached fatalism. That, at any rate, is the mood he has shown to visitors in recent weeks.

It was implicit in his letter of acceptance to Hannegan. He would be a good soldier and stay at it. If the American people commanded him to do so. You can, of course, be completely cynical about this and say that Mr. Roosevelt has assumed the attitude likeliest to bring him victory. That, however, overlooks the real greatness the president has shown in the war crisis.

War, or no war, running a national campaign takes some attention from the candidate. Events in the campaign may compel the president to come down off Mount Olympus.

Sun sets tonight 8:30. Sun rises tomorrow 5:42.

The man who never hides behind a woman's skirts is the one whose wife wears the pants in the family.

The difficulty of practicing what you preach is that you have to put in too much overtime.

GOOD IDEA

Dear Hints and Dints:
I have had friends tell me that they are at a loss to know what to do when they hear of others losing their boys in the war. Why not suggest that they call upon the bereaved ones to offer sympathy. And just a flower or two would help so much.

Great Game Of Politics

The CIO Boses

CHICAGO, July 22.—BEFORE THIS column is printed perhaps the unsavory mess into which this Democratic convention has got over the Vice-Presidential nomination will have been straightened out and a running mate selected for Mr. Roosevelt whom the absurdly incongruous and discordant elements, so loosely held together here by the party label, can accept without open and public protest.

BUT THAT is the most that can be hoped for and already the struggle has revealed the naked facts about the controlling forces in the Democratic organization in a way to sag self-respecting party men and which once clearly understood, certainly will not sit well upon the collective stomach of the American people. For the plain truth is that the real bosses of the convention are the two professionals of the CIO—Mr. Philip Murray and Mr. Sidney Hillman. The latter is the director of the CIO's Political Action Committee and is the stronger boss of the two because he is both more aggressive and shadier.

ENCONCED in a really luxurious suite at an exceedingly handsome hotel, this Russian-born former garment worker, with his admitted Communist background and affiliations, exerts more influence than any other single individual attending this gathering. This is not an exaggeration. It is a simple statement of fact which party leaders here deeply resent but which they none the less recognize and to which they submit.

Joe wrote his mother that he was having a nice time in Washington and everything was fine except that the rest of the lions kept him awake at night. His mother decided that Joe must be imagining he was back in Africa again and got worried. Please tell us the truth, answered, collected he wrote, is Joe crazy?

Right smack came back a long night letter. Something like this: "Joe wrote his mother that he was having a nice time in Washington and everything was fine except that the rest of the lions kept him awake at night. His mother decided that Joe must be imagining he was back in Africa again and got worried. Please tell us the truth, answered, collected he wrote, is Joe crazy?"

I thought and thought about lions roaring. What could Joe mean? Then like a flash I had the thing doped out. Joe's friends, the ones he visited lived near the zoo. Just like I told you. And, sure enough, those lions inside the cages there do make a lot of noise. In the middle of the night some times they below enough to shake the house down. But I decided I'd have a little fun out of the thing myself. So I wired Joe's Pa—Toll Joe's mother not to worry. The only lions in Washington that aren't in cages are wandering around the streets. And they're getting hairier and will be mostly naked off on the first Monday in November. Joe's O. K. Ha! Ha! Wasn't that a good answer?

Believe me, lady, Washington gets dumber and dumber.

Idle Thoughts
Some of the men of my own party at the War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes were the handy man of the Roosevelt era. When ever the administration comes upon a snag or a knot that is hard to smooth off somebody cries: "Let Jimmy do it. Jimmy's the man for that job."

Jimmy has a talent for not making anybody mad. He doesn't seem to be around the place so much. But he certainly does saw a lot of wood.

You never hear of Jimmy Byrnes making the wrong remarks. Or expressing himself too loudly. One explanation for this useful reticence may be the habit of the former senator-former supreme court justice-former congressman to accept no social invitations. Jimmy Byrnes and Maud, his wife, never go to evening parties.

Another one of my worries of the moment is, how are you going to tell who are the heathen nowadays? Time was when I was very young you could easily tell who the heathen was or were. The superior heathen of the Sunday school said he was a fellow who believed in scalping and boiling in oil and tormenting with red-hot sticks and would you please save your pennies to pay the gentle missionary's room and board in the south seas or Timbuctoo so that the missionary could teach that cruel heathen to be like us. To practice Christian virtues, kindness and tolerance.

It occurs to me that it's time the inhabitants of the south sea islands and Timbuctoo passed a weekly mite box for us civilized peoples. We've sunk to the depths of savagery. And we know it.

Once I asked a barbarian who had a feudal barony on top of a mountain in Africa what he thought when he looked toward murdering, flaming Europe.

"I think," said the barbarian slowly, "I think 'How those Christians love each other.'"

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has announced a ten weeks' course to each dog good manners.

I saw the story in my paper which Deuce, my little Sealyham has just torn up and deposited, in shreds, on the living room floor.

Deuce can't read. I am sure of that, unless he has been holding out on me. But he had the right paw right on that story and there was a disgusted look in his eyes.

I think he wanted to tell me that in his opinion dogs have better manners than a lot of people.

I think Deuce can tell bad-mannered from well-mannered folks. Otherwise why is he so completely nice to some but has no use for others?

There is a woman in my neighborhood who wanted to be friendly with Deuce.

But whenever she came near him he growled and showed in every possible way that he didn't like her. Once she came into our vegetable garden and picked some mint.

She spoke to Deuce and called him pet names.

Deuce calmly walked up to her and nipped her right in the seat of her slacks.

Deuce was right about the woman. We have found out since then that she is a trouble-maker and not the kind of a person a self-respecting dog would want for a friend.

I think if Deuce could talk he would tell me that a dog has a different conception of manners from that of a human being.

Oh sure you can teach a human to sit up, lie down, roll over, talk and do a lot of other tricks. Just like they are going to teach the dogs at the SPCA.

But that Deuce would tell me, isn't manners. Manners are part of a person's character. And character can't be taught, it's inborn.

The selfless devotion your dog gives you, the complete confidence he has in you, the happiness he gets out of just being with you and pleasing you, the joy he shows when you come home, the grief when you are away, the abject contrition when he does something wrong and you scold him—you can't teach that, that's part of him.

And yet even if Deuce could talk, would he have said all that? I doubt it.

Because all those things for which we love our dogs, are so natural to them that they don't even know what fine creatures they are.

There is no conceit in dogs, no vanity, no pretense, no sham, no scheming, no two-facedness, no hypocrisy.

Yes, Deuce forgets himself every now and then. He tears up papers, he scares delivery men, he chases chipmunks, he pesters me when I want to work.

But I am not going to send him to college to learn manners.

I'm learning manners from him. Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Into the Mail Bag

One of the questions foremost in the minds of our boys in service is the kind of a job they are going to come back to. In fact they spend a good bit of their spare time wondering if they will even have a job when they get back.

Speaking generally, we don't believe they have much to worry about. There is going to be plenty of work for everyone for several years after the war. There are thirty-million automobiles to be built. The best the industry can do is six million per year—so there's five good years of steady work.

The annual demand for refrigerators will run over four million per year and continue for five years. The same is true of vacuum cleaners, of irons, of laundry machines and other household equipment. If you want to gauge the market just list all the things you can't get now on account of the war. Although American manufacturers make the finest equipment in the world, it still wears out. It has been wearing out now for over three years with no replacements.

Speaking specifically, the employees of Johnson Bronze now in the service still have jobs waiting for them when they return. In our last letter to them we assured them of this fact. And we asked them about the new trades or skills they are acquiring while in service. It's surprising how many of the boys are learning something new... something that will be of great value to them when they return to civilian life.

When we hear about one of our boys learning a new trade or taking advanced training in his former trade, we mark it on his record card at the plant. It's pretty much the same as though he were still on our payroll and had received a promotion.

erating credit of twenty times that amount, or one hundred sixty billion dollars, would be putting some rather high and fancy authority, don't you think, into the hands of a few self-appointed international politicians who might possibly forget that they were mere men of clay, and not supermen.

We already are having some rather unpleasant and irritating experiences with bungling and addle-pated bureaucrats who are ordering our lives for us, all in the name of war, of course, but behind the scenes there is altogether too much evidence that our war restrictions are just a training school for what they propose slapping on us on perpetuity after the war is won.

Before we had any war and while they were pledging themselves to the high heavens that no American soldier would ever be sent to fight on foreign soil, we were being regimented and told what we could grow, how long we could work and for how much, fixing prices on commodities, packing the courts and knocking the independence out of Congress.

Perhaps that couldn't keep us out of war, so we will forget that. But we won't forget that they were either dumb or liars when they declared we would never go to war, and neither will we forget that their planning for the last eleven and one-half years has been on the basis of the peace. The peace has ended, and the road in its growth and development. All that was left, according to their hope and imagination, was to count noses, control the birthrate and embark on an era of "planned economy."

Planned economy, if you please, is the quitter's platform. Under that system nobody is a free man. He is a slave to the state, and much he can grow and produce. The government will take over the products and divide them up according to the needs of each and every individual. The government having fixed all incomes will also fix the price the consumer is to pay according to his income and the number of children to feed and clothe. Nothing would be wasted because only enough would be grown and manufactured to fill the needs. If you wanted to work hard and save up for a juicy T-bone for Sunday dinner, no luck. While the President was raving and grieving in a famous funeral about Economic Royalists and Enriched Greeders, he also shed crocodile tears about one-third of our people being under-nourished. At the same time Vice President Wallace was out in the pasture meadows and barnyards with his shotgun killing off hundreds of thousands of million chickens and young calves, children forming millions of little pigs and ordering the farmers to plow under one-third of their crops.

That was the starter of the system of Planned Economy. First you must reduce yourselves to nothing. You can't have planned economy until you are at the bottom of everything. American men and women were no longer able to look out for themselves. Genius, skill, industry, frugality, self-reliance, daring and imagination were not only out of date, they were a failure. By expert planning and assignments on the part of government, they then called brain trusters, all the troubling problems of life and living were to be solved for everybody. Of course, that entailed humble submission and obedience to the will of the Great Humanitarian.

And even though he may have been sincere in those days, when he said "again and again and again" that American boys would not be sent abroad to fight, events reveal that he failed to recognize the unpredictable traits of human nature. Hitler, Mussolini and their ilk also had ideas and when they began to use us, we were not prepared, and we've been rationed from that day to this.

Now, we have an international bank in the making, with delegates from forty-five countries here making a deal how it is to be run and what kind of money and credit are to be used and controlled in their respective countries. Nobody knows exactly who they are or who gave them any authority to lay down the laws that are to govern money. Certainly, there are no business men in those representing this country and those from the British Commonwealth are famous for their pinhead and socialist proclivities, with an eye to the same thing, a form of planned economy in which Government dictates the rules of life, taking away from the citizen his freedom, his liberty, his independence and his right to follow his individual desires in the job of living and making a living.

Controlling money and credits means controlling everything down to how you spend your time and the shoes you wear on your feet. That the control of money and credit means a guarantee of peace is the most fallacious claim under the sun. For this country to be the big shot in this proposition would be for us to throw ourselves wide open to invite the enemy of every man and nation we attempt to control, and the combined populations of the United States and Great Britain constitute only a small fraction of the world's inhabitants.

Russia, one of the biggest, most powerful and most populous nations on earth, is taking no part in this conference. It might be comforting to have a gentleman's understanding with the British Commonwealth that whatever happens we will be open for a deal, but dragging in every dirty-nosed little national tramp on earth and guaranteeing their integrity whether they believe or not, is a leveling off process all right, but America would be leveled down, not up.

It is, therefore, refreshing to hear youthful Governor Dewey stepping up with the enthusiasm that goes with youth, and proclaiming that as for him and his future opportunities, he stands for and believes in a greater and finer America, with the frontiers of progress just opening for another forward movement and for a better, happier and more independent life in this country.

The levee system of the Mississippi is some 500 miles longer than the Great Wall of China.

Girl Scouts Stage Circus As Second Week Of Cascade Park Day Camp Is Finished

Clowns, bearded women, and the longest horse in captivity were all turned loose in Cascade park Friday afternoon, but no one was especially disturbed, not even by the wild lions and tigers since it was the Girl Scout day campers who were running the show.

Staging their circus by units, the campers had four or five acts with clowns in every one of them. Some were dressed in traditional clown suits, others had costumes of their own concoction. One clown, amply supplied with lipstick, crept up behind unsuspecting spectators and kissed them, leaving large red marks on their cheeks.

Brownies had trained horses and a ringmaster who really put them through their paces and dances. Another group with a horse act, the long horse with the six feet, also had an acrobat and leaders of group songs.

Twirlers, dressed in attractive costumes, entertained with their batons, and no one worried about the tight rope act because the rope was only imaginary. The strip teaser kept the group amused for a long time, because she had so very many clothes on. Also in the act were the freaks, the fat woman, the thin woman, the bearded woman, and others.

After the show was completed, the group was entertained with a free ride on the merry-go-round, a treat from park superintendent C. C. Coulthard.

St. Joseph's Group Start Activities

Perfect Pauline Peluso Is Representative To Chicago S.S.C.A. In August Month

Friday evening the regular meeting of the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Joseph's church was held in the lodge rooms, and the announcement was made that Perfect Pauline Peluso will represent the Sodality at the summer school of Catholic Action from August 28 to September 1, in Chicago, Ill.

An important meeting was held and Anna Jean Retzer announced plans for a perpetual mass during August. On August 15, the Feast of the Assumption, the Sodality will attend mass in a body at 8 o'clock.

Margaret Valley of St. Mary's church showed motion pictures later and these were well enjoyed by the group.

Rev. Fr. John M. Unger, spiritual director, thanked the Sodality for contributing religious articles to be sent to Father Michael Himebusch, a former pastor here, now chaplain of a German prisoner camp at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Plans were made for a dinner next August 28 at Wagner's farm. Anna Samonicki is social chairman and committee. Jean and Connie Ardinger, Ann Jean Retzer, Pauline Duff, Eleanor Klaber and Caroline Viviano.

Sodalists will attend the picnic of the L. C. U. S. Sunday afternoon. Caroline Viviano of the publicity committee announced the use of the bulletin board in the church hall to post all Sodality news.

On August 8 the group will receive holy communion at the 8 o'clock mass and August 18 is the next meeting.

THE PARENT PROBLEM (Continued From Page Four)

and relatives often hasten the convalescent period. How different if this person has just recovered from a mental illness. The curious, prying question, dubious remarks and whispers by the relatives and neighbors, all of which are sensed by the convalescent, can be grave barriers to his or her complete recovery. For the average person discharged from a mental hospital, it may be harder to return to normal acceptance in the family and community than if he or she had returned from a jail or penitentiary. This is absurd.

Constructive Program
In case a member of your family seems mentally under the weather, set the stage so this member will be studied by your family doctor who, in turn, will refer you to a psychiatrist. Working tactfully with your family doctor you might easily be able to save the patient placed under the care of the psychiatrist who not only will deal directly with him, but will guide you and the whole family in relation to him.

Follow this expert's advice to the letter. Should he advise placing the patient in a hospital for further observation, cooperate; or if he advises commitment to an institution for the mentally sick, also cooperate. Do so for the welfare of the patient and the family. Some terrible sufferings have come to children and other members of the family through the presence of a person so ill as to warrant isolation in the home.

Planning Patient's Return

Hopefully plan for the patient's return to the family and prepare the children, relatives and neighbors for the event. In the meantime, try to keep up morale in the home just as you would were the patient seriously ill physically.

When the patient does return as cured, follow the advice of the expert on your best family attitude and program for helping him enjoy permanent recovery. To this end, use your best common sense. Provide a hopeful, cheerful, happy family atmosphere. Coach your relatives and friends.

While in most cases the chances for permanent recovery are very good, you will want to do your utmost to guarantee the cure. Even should the expert declare the case hopeless, he might be wrong. Anyway, you are going to cultivate courage and do your utmost to keep heart, not only for your own welfare but even more for the welfare of the children.

An Important Message to Every Citizen of Lawrence County.

Let's Do Our Part. Let's Build Stable Communities in Lawrence County!

LAWRENCE COUNTY FACES AN IMMEDIATELY SERIOUS PROBLEM

And it's a big problem, too! We must provide an additional 2,000 employees within 60 days or 3,600 within four months, or witness an influx of new employees and temporary housing, possibly in excess of our needs. We must help our industries meet this problem.

HOW WE CAN HELP SOLVE THE PROBLEM

To do our part in helping to win the war . . . to keep all of our industries operating, which means to prevent dislocation of employment locally . . . to keep the affairs of Lawrence County on an even keel so as not to create a temporary surplus of labor and housing—here are the things we can do to help solve the problem.

1. Provide more people for more hours of work—which means particularly those UNEMPLOYED WOMEN who will volunteer to take a war job.
2. Encourage those now employed in non-essential industry outside of Lawrence County to return to their home town—their place of residence—and take a job here.
3. Provide all available rooms, apartments, and houses possible for rent.

IT DEPENDS UPON YOU

Whether or Not Lawrence County Must Call for Outside Help

IT DEPENDS UPON WHETHER YOU (unemployed women particularly) are patriotic and willing to take a war job.

IT DEPENDS UPON YOU, who have always wanted a job at home and are now working outside of the county. Are you willing to return to a job in Lawrence County?

IT DEPENDS UPON YOU, Mr. Property-Owner. Will you rent that extra room, that empty apartment or house—yes, even to families with children?

THE TIME IS SHORT! Lawrence County must give the answer to these problems to our war industries, to the War Manpower Commission, and to the National Housing Agency by July 27th.

DO THIS NOW!

- Fill out the questionnaire which will appear in the New Castle News on July 25th and 26th and send it in to the Greater New Castle Association, Castleton Hotel Building, New Castle, Pa., promptly.
- Register at the U. S. Employment Service, E. Washington St. (over the Citizens National Bank) for employment.
- Register your room, apartment or house for rent with your real estate agent or the Greater New Castle Association.

LET'S SHOW OUR PATRIOTIC AND CIVIC SPIRIT!

Dems To Elect Chairman Today

Robert E. Hannegan Will Probably Be Re-Elected Without Opposition

By WILLIAM THEIS
U. S. Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 22.—(INS)—Friends of Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan forecast that he will be re-elected without opposition at today's organization of the new national committee as a result of the vice presidential nomination of his political sponsor, Sen. Harry S. Truman.

Re-election Certain
"This makes Bob Hannegan's re-election certain," said Frank M. Hale, Democratic committeeman from Indiana.

The nomination of Harry Truman demonstrated Hannegan's leadership in a difficult situation. He will be more effective than ever before because of this experience. No other name will be offered against him.

Talk of opposition to Hannegan's re-election developed around Democratic convention headquarters during the vice presidential jockeying early this week. Sen. Joseph P. Gurney, of Pennsylvania, backing Vice President Henry A. Wallace for re-nomination, blasted the chairman in a statement demanding that he make public in full President Roosevelt's letter endorsing both Truman and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Truman Appointment
Had Wallace been the nominee, his supporters might have been in position to cause trouble for the 40-year-old attorney who, like Truman, hails from Missouri.

It was Truman who recommended Hannegan for the post of U. S. commissioner of internal revenue. President Roosevelt then picked Hannegan to head the party machine for the 1944 campaign.

Other officers of the national committee also were expected to be renominated without opposition.

They include Vice Chairman Oscar Ewing, Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg of Alabama, the committee's attractive young secretary, and Edwin W. Pauley, treasurer.

Most Americans have never had their fingerprints recorded.

Accused Man Denies Bombing Candy Store

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—(INS)—A soldier home on furlough today was being held for court on charges of writing numbers, which he admitted, but he denied having bombed a new confectionery store in order, as police alleged, to stifle the competition.

The owners and operators of the bombed store, two men and a woman, were also held on numbers charges despite their denials.

In denying that he had threatened to bomb the new store, the soldier, Pvt. Thomas Mullen, 28, told Magistrate W. H. K. McDaniel, "I didn't make any threats. They didn't hurt my business. I've been in it (writing numbers) for three or four years and they've only been in it for three months."

Even though numbers slips were blown helter-skelter by the bomb blast, Harry Hall, one of the store owners, said no numbers were written in the establishment, but he testified Private Mullen had threatened to "blow up" the place if it gave him numbers competition.

Nazis Intensify Robot Attacks

LONDON, July 22.—(INS)—London and Southern England were peppered Friday with a steady stream of robot bombs in what was believed to be the heaviest attack since the Germans began launching the deadly missiles from the French coast five weeks ago.

London observers reported that the flying bomb activity had assumed proportions larger than ever noticed before. In one area, anti-aircraft gunners put up a barrage on a scale never equaled in the past. It was understood.

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—(INS)—Pittsburgh police today were checking a 17-year-old California girl's voluntary confession of having committed bigamy and larceny, after she surrendered to police in neighboring McKeesport and said: "Lock me up; I'm a bigamist and a thief."

The girl, who identified herself as Arlie Dell Stevens of Richmond, Cal., said she had married a second time without getting a divorce from her first husband, had left husband No. 2 in Catskill, N. Y., after stealing $150 from her landlady there, and had stolen dresses from other lodgers in a Pittsburgh rooming house.

HARRISBURG, July 22.—(INS)—The State Defense Council reported today that preliminary tests of Pennsylvania's new air raid warning system indicated all was in readiness for blackout tests and air raid drills.

The Council has warned that a blackout test could be expected prior to September 1.

The Council's new plan calls for state control center to send warnings to metropolitan areas for immediate transmission to surrounding counties.

After several months of army supervision, the Council was requested by the Third Service Command June 9 to disseminate alerts because the army had withdrawn personnel and equipment for overseas duty.

INJURED YOUTH LEAVES HOSPITAL

Jack Hickey of Glenmore boulevard, injured in a flash explosion in the garage of Harold Good, a neighbor, Thursday afternoon, was able to leave the Jameson Memorial hospital Friday. His injuries were found to be less serious than was at first indicated.

Mr. Good, who just returned from a vacation trip yesterday, stated that only a few quarts of gasoline had been stored in the garage in an open vessel, and in addition there was a quantity of turpentine and other inflammable materials, which were left there by a painter. These combined in the closed structure to form fumes, which ignited when the boy lit a match. No fire followed, which would have resulted had there been a large amount of such materials present.

Editor Declares Germany In Chaos

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS)—The foreign editor of the British Broadcasting Company declared flatly Friday that in his opinion Germany is in the throes of a civil war, and that Adolf Hitler is taking the most desperate measures possible to prevent the revolt from spreading throughout the homeland.

The BBC expert, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, declared:

"One thing is certain—whether the attempt to overthrow Hitler and his regime succeeds or is crushed, revolt has broken out in the Reich, and the most desperate measures are being taken to prevent it from spreading, and thus make it impossible for Hitler to carry on his lost war."

"A state of civil war exists in Germany. We have it on the authority of Hitler and Goering, who would be the last people to exaggerate the challenge to their authority, that a rival government was set up during the past day or two, and that the men in it, described as warpers, had been issuing orders and addressing the population."

The BBC foreign expert belittled Hitler's claim that the generals fostering the revolt were a small and unrepresented clique.

The attempt to oust Hitler, he said, may fail. "But at least there is concrete proof that there are powerful elements in Germany who know the war is lost and are resolved to end it in spite of the Nazis."

Poison Overdose Fatal To Woman

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS)—An attractive girl of 26, who had registered at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel as "Katherine Ruskins" of Richmond, Va., but who was identified by a detective as Marion Hans, daughter of a prominent Baltimore attorney, died Friday from the effects of a powerful poison.

The girl was identified at Bellevue hospital as the one who was arrested two weeks ago at Manhattan Beach for allegedly swimming in the nude. Charges against her were dismissed when Patrolman John Faulkner testified he had seen her with a towel draped around her at 6 a. m. on July 5. Her father, Evan Donovan Hans, appeared at the hearing as her counsel.

Manpower Shortage Among Scientists

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—(INS)—Magic-making scientists at Mellon Institute of industrial research have solved innumerable dilemmas for industry, particularly in the field of synthetics and substitutes, but they apparently can't help basebal managers solve their manpower problems.

Proof of this was seen today in the institute's reluctant announcement that it will have to drop out of the Pittsburgh industrial softball league next week.

Reason: Manpower shortage. They can no longer field a team.

Southern Rhodesia has established a factory for production of prefabricated building units for concrete houses.

"MORE THAN THEIR SHARE" SAYS ARMY SERVICE HEAD

Lieutenant-General Brehon Somervell should know something about trucks. He is the commanding general of the army service forces and under his command are hundreds of thousands of trucks. Here is what he says:

"I have seen American trucks carrying the war to the enemy in every combat theatre. In China, India, in Australia and the islands of the Southwest Pacific, in North Africa and England, trucks and truck drivers have done and are doing a magnificent job."

"On the long road to Russia from the Persian Gulf to the shore of the Caspian Sea, American trucks working under almost unbelievable difficulties are carrying hundreds of thousands of tons of munitions and supplies to the Red Army. Trucks carrying Quartermaster supplies to the Army in Tunisia fought off repeated Messerschmidt raids, got the supplies through and help win that campaign. On the road to Rome, American trucks and truck drivers are carrying more than their share of the load."

Civilian trucks are doing the same kind of a job, General, and they'll do even a better job when peace comes, a peace motor trucks have done so much to win.

Roosevelt Happy Over Nomination Of Harry Truman

President Sends Senator Truman Telegram Of Congratulations From Coast

TRUMAN-WALLACE ARE GOOD FRIENDS

CHICAGO, July 22.—(INS)—Sen. Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice presidential candidate, today made public a telegram from President Roosevelt congratulating him upon his victory.

"I send you my heartiest congratulations on your victory," the President wired. "I am of course very happy to have you run with me. Let me know your plans. I shall see you soon."

The telegram of the President, who is traveling in the West, was marked "White House," having been transmitted through executive offices.

The modest, gray-haired vice presidential candidate, who defeated Vice President Henry A. Wallace in a spectacular contest, was overwhelmed with visitors bringing good wishes. He opened his suite in the Stevens hotel to all comers.

Truman-Wallace Friends. He did not personally meet Mr. Wallace, and voiced his regret Wallace sent him a telegram of congratulations.

"I understand the vice president left or I should have called on him," said Truman. "He is still the vice president and I like him. The only thing that hurt me was that I had to defeat him."

Despite the fact that he was up most of the night, Truman appeared dapper and cheerful early today. He donned a freshly pressed light, summer suit. He smiled broadly as he posed time and again for cameramen.

Congratulations poured in by long distance telephone. One which pleased him was from Sen. Homer Ferguson, Michigan Republican, who is a member of the Senate Truman committee.

Citizen Praises Recreation Plan

Feasibility Of Children's Pet Parade Next Saturday Being Studied

"Congratulations on your city-wide recreation project. This is what we have been in need of for a long time."

This was the foreword of a letter sent today to Mayor John F. Haven by John V. McClelland, local businessman.

"I hope you get whole-hearted support. Any visitor to our city will surely have high praise for New Castle and its civic-minded leaders for such completed projects," the letter concluded.

The mayor, temporary chairman of the committee composed of hundreds of men and women hope to raise $25,000.

Next Friday night a mass meeting will be held in City hall and on the following night a big parade will be held, the mayor stated.

He was considering today the advisability of making the parade a pageant for children in which they would parade with their pets whether it is a dog, crow, chicken, goat, donkey, owl or whatnot.

P. S.—If the plan is agreed upon the dog catcher "will leave town for a night."

for clique was wiped out or arrested in a matter of a few hours.

"I expected nothing else. I know that as hitlers you will fight with exemplary obedience and loyalty until victory is ours in spite of all."

There was every sign the revolt was continuing despite protestations from Berlin that the uprising had been quelled, and rumors were spread that Hitler himself had been more gravely injured than was officially admitted.

Speads To Navy Reports also were widespread that the disaffection which began among army forces had spread to the German navy.

Radio Algiers quoted reports from Basle, Switzerland, saying it was generally believed that naval units at the German naval bases of Kiel and Stettin had rebelled.

While the whole situation remained obscure and the outside world had little other than Nazi accounts of what actually has taken place, Berlin and the rest of Germany remained cut off from communication, indicating that the situation in the Reich still was serious and might yet develop into a widespread upheaval.

A wireless dispatch by the Nazi agency DNB, quoting Hitler's own newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, indicated that calm had not been restored. It said that the appointment of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler as chief of the army on the home front "guarantees that the task will be mastered."

The Voelkischer Beobachter added that attempts at plots will be impossible in the future.

Berlin quarters stated that all of the alleged traitors had been arrested six hours after the attempt was made to kill Hitler and declared that no blood, except that of the conspirators, was shed. Reports emanating from Stockholm, however, said that many hundreds of Germany's best officers were executed in the purge ordered by Hitler and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler.

speaker was able to come in on the Frankfurt wave length early today to report that anti-Hitler action continues and to exhort the people of the Reich to work for the overthrow of Hitler indicated that the opposition still may have a good hold on communications and information services.

Travelers arriving in Malmoe, Sweden, the Exchange Telegraph agency reported, said it was rumored in Berlin that Hitler was more gravely injured by the bomb blast at his headquarters than was previously admitted. One source doubted whether the address given over the radio early yesterday was actually made by Hitler, and many Berliners were reported to feel similarly, the Exchange account said.

Arrest Rumored An NBC reporter in Ankara said that rumors were prevalent in the Turkish capital that Hitler had been arrested. Some Turkish quarters, he said, heard diplomatic reports that Hitler may be under protective custody.

Reports of unrest within the German navy came from Oslo where it was stated that illegal leaflets issued by the "Fraternity of German Seamen" had been circulated among German sailors in Norway.

Although some accounts said the greatest opposition was taking place in the east the Daily Express printed unconfirmed reports from Stockholm telling of clashes between Hitler black guards and regular troops in Berlin, Stettin, Cologne and Frankfurt.

Berlin was termed a city under siege.

Meanwhile Stockholm reports said that leaders of the military opposition to Hitler remained safe somewhere in Germany.

A Reuters account said that the leaders were reported to include Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, former chief of staff of the army high command, Field Marshal Brauchitsch, Field Marshal Bock and General von Falkenhausen and Halder.

Claiming the issues presented were not broad enough to cover their grievance, tool and die shop employees of the Aluminum Company of America left the arbitration proceedings held this morning in the plant and refused to testify.

The proceedings were being conducted by Dr. T. F. Porter, named by the War Labor Board to adjudicate the differences.

The trouble arose some weeks ago when several tool and die shop workers were discharged for failure to pay UAW-CIO dues. The men claimed they were not members of the UAW-CIO. The argument is one between unions, the UAW-CIO claiming collective bargaining rights for the entire plant while the tool and die workers wish to be represented by the International Tool and Die Sinker's Conference, according to L. M. Shearer, representing the men.

What further action will be taken in the dispute was not made known today.

City Baseball league commission met last night in the Y and voted to uphold the protest of the Johnson Bronze. The Bronze protested that the Loyol Moose had used ineligible players (Sugent and Coen) in the second and third games of a series to decide the championship of the first half. Commissioners present last night were Mescal, Hyde, Wallace and Guinagh. Commission Secretary Wallace stated following the meeting that Commissioner Edie's decision, given Tuesday night, agreed with that rendered last night.

The decision was handed down after League Secretary Ed. Fritz had presented to the commission a letter from Rev. Fr. P. M. Schirra, former president. The letter arrived at 5:30 p. m. yesterday from Morgantown where Rev. Fr. Schirra is the Catholic chaplain. His letter follows:

"Dear Ed—Ever since leaving New Castle I have always been interested in the City league because I had the privilege of being the president for several years.

"I still receive the New Castle News and I was sorry to read about the difficulty with which the league officials have been confronted in regard to the first half champs. I read in the paper where the commissioners have decided that the teams involved will play the deciding game on Sunday. I also read in the same article that regardless of the decision it would not be satisfactory to the teams involved.

"Since you are the secretary I am writing to you my interpretation of this rule while I was the president of the league. Perhaps your rules have been changed or interpreted in a different way at the beginning of the season. If they haven't, here is my version of the rule involved.

"The play-off stated in the rule refers to the series at the end of the season, therefore, before any player can participate in this series he must at least play in four games whether in the first half or second or both combined.

"Hoping that you and the league officials will find a happy medium and that the league will go on without any difficulties, and wishing you and all the players and officials a successful season.

Sincerely Yours,
FR. SCHIRRA.

"P.S. Understand I am not taking sides of either team involved or trying to change the decision of the commission but this is my interpretation of the rule. Perhaps the managers will agree to settle it in an agreeable manner so that harmony will continue throughout the season."

The commissioners read the foregoing letter during the meeting and later voted on not only the eligibility of Sugent and Coen but also a protest which Manager Diffley filed concerning a ball which was hit to right field and which Umpire Priscaro called a foul. The commission upheld the umpire's decision and also the protest of Diffley who charged Sugent and Coen were ineligible because they had not participated in the required number of games.

The much discussed rule, adopted several years ago, follows:

League season shall be divided into two parts, winner of first and second halves meeting in a post-season series for the championship. If either half ends in a tie a three-game series will be played to decide the winner. One game to be played on each field, third game on a neutral field. If mutually agreed, games may be played on any field. Winners of first and second halves meet in a five-game series, first four games played alternatively on each field, fifth game on neutral field, or any field mutually agreed upon by managers. To be eligible for play-off, players must have participated in four games.

Sought Way Out

After last night's session the commission said they suggested Tuesday to Managers Diffley and Rodenbaugh that "their teams play one game to decide the first half championship." At first neither manager wanted to do this and asked the commission to make a decision. Later Diffley agreed and it was also said that Rodenbaugh also agreed. It was reported last night that Rodenbaugh's reply was not definite. The commission felt, they stated, that this would prove best for all concerned. The agreement between the managers would have permitted any player to play which would have been another alleged breach of the rules.

The decision was made known to President Mike Donovan last night. He left the Y without comment. Hence, the problem is now back in his lap.

Commission Statement

Last night the Commission President Mescal issued a written statement concerning their Tuesday meeting which follows:

"The commissioners took up the matter of the eligibility of the two Moose team players. After reading over rule three (3) of the City Baseball league under which eligibility of players is said to be defined, the commissioners discovered that the rule was so poorly written that it would require them to interpret a rule made and agreed to by the teams composed of the City Baseball league. They felt that it was not and is not the province of the commissioners to interpret any rule but merely to render a decision on rules definitely defining the action or actions of teams and players in the game of baseball.

"Due to this fact, the commissioners asked the managers of both the Johnson Bronze and the Moose baseball teams if they would agree to play one game to decide the winner of the first half of the City Baseball league schedule. Both managers agreed to do this. It was also agreed by both managers that if they could not mutually agree to the field on which this game is to be played, they would abide by the decision of the commissioners on the field to be used.

"Insofar as both managers agreed to this arrangement and considering the fact that it is impossible to understand the City Baseball league rules, the commissioners believe that this arrangement was all that could be done.

"The vote on this arrangement was four to nothing. One member of the commissioners was present at the time this proposal was made. That member was Mr. Joe Eddy who had to leave the meeting early."

As matters now stand no arrangement has been made to bring the teams together again. However, they will clash in the second half which is already under way.

Corporal Conn Asks For Gloves

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—(INS)—Cpl. Billy Conn may or may not reach that ambition of his to meet Sgt. Joe Louis in the ring again now that both of them are in England, but in any event, Conn is keeping himself in shape.

Evidence of this came in a letter to a Pittsburgh friend asking for three pairs of boxing trunks, a headgear and gloves. The supplies were sent immediately to Conn at an English base.

Umpires Will Meet Tonight

All members of the Lawrence County Umpires association are asked to attend a meeting at the "Y" tonight at 8 o'clock. Umpire assignments for next week in the city league will be made at this time. Leo W. Hill, president, will conduct the meeting.

City Golf Title Tourney Nears

Qualifying Rounds Will Open At Sylvan Heights Course On Sunday

Qualifying play will start Sunday in the annual city championship golf tournament, which is open to any golfer in Lawrence county who plays the local courses. Manager Sam Haycock of the Sylvan Heights golf course, which is the site of the tournament, said today.

This event has been attracting the best golfers in the county for a period of 15 years and has produced some strenuously contested matches. The beautiful municipal course is in the finest shape in years, and has been attracting golfers from all over the surrounding district. Golfers will find it in fine shape for the tournament.

Marty Segedi, defending champion, will find some good golfers challenging him for the title this year, including Stan Bukowski, runner-up last year, who is shooting a fine brand of golf this year.

Any golfer wishing to compete can register with Manager Haycock starting Sunday. There will be awards in the different flights, including a cup for the winner of the first flight.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Seth L. Myers, outdoors writer for the Pennsylvania Northwest Sportsman has received an article, reportedly taken from an Elmira, N. Y. newspaper. No comment was attached to the article. The article speaks for itself, according to Myers.

The caption letters over the item reads, "War declared to wipe out woodchucks," and according to the story, a county agent, one Lacey H. Woodward called upon all farmers to put on a drive which will annihilate what he terms the lowly animal. He gives as his reason that in this way many tons of produce can be saved for civilians, as well as service men overseas. He goes on to advise how they must be burned in their dens by use of various poisonous chemicals giving the proper amounts for mixing the deadly formula. He warns humans not to inhale the gas formed by the chemicals as agonizing pains will result. He further warns the farmers to be careful of explosions which might happen from rough handling or smoking.

After having read the article several times and finally realizing that the man is not fooling, but in dead earnest, we are wondering why he doesn't try to get hold of some of the poisonous gas which has been outlawed in modern warfare," writes Myers, who is affiliated with the Northwest Sportsman. Myers continues:

"In Pennsylvania, a county agent of this type, would soon be confronted with officers from the humane society, the game commission, the organized sportsmen and the farmers themselves. A man like this would publish this type of advice to the public certainly has no right to publish it.

"We know and freely admit that the 'chuck' does some little damage in open fields. Our game laws provide that the animal may be killed by farmers at any time and by any humane method. We do not know to what the agent referred when he said, 'tons of produce for humans' as the animal lives almost entirely on clover.

"Here in Pennsylvania the woodchuck is legally classed as a game animal and protected as such with open season July 1 to September 30. Only five of the animals may be killed in one day, with no limit for the season. The meat of the animal is very good when properly dressed and cooked. Those desiring to hunt woodchucks must wear last year hunting license. Several calls have come to this office, wanting to know if service men home on furlough are allowed to hunt 'chucks' without a license. We regret to advise they are not but trust that with the next session of the legislature such a rule can be amended in the law.

Legion Crushes Sharpville Nine

Local Team Comes To Life And Administers Crushing Defeat To Younger Team

TO PLAY SECOND GAMES NEXT WEEK

New Castle's American Legion Junior baseball entry in the Pennsylvania elimination contests, now under way, came to life last night in the third and deciding game of the series with their younger and less experienced opponents from Sharpville, administering a crushing defeat to the tune of 24-5.

Andrews was in fine form, and held the visiting boys to three hits during the seven innings he worked, and fanned seven batters. He was a little wild in the first inning, when he walked two batters, Perrett who secured a scratchy single, when no one fielded his slow roller, was picked off first, and Andrew fanned Ellison, a good hitter to end the threat.

From then on, Sharpville never seriously threatened although they secured two runs in the third inning, on a hit batsman, walk, two hits, and an error.

The New Castle lads clinched the ball game in the first inning, when Joe Zeigler, first at bat, secured a single, and went to second on Gerald's infield out. Tanager fanned on a low pitch, which the catcher missed, and Zeigler scored. Liebenorfer was safe on a fielder's choice, when the attempt to get Tanager going to third failed. Baxter walked and the bases were full, with but one out. Snyder came through with a sharp single between Ferrara and Ernie, bringing in two runs. Beran was safe on Ernie's error, and another run came over. Rote fanned, but Andrews singled, scoring two more Zeigler fanned in his second time at bat, ending the inning.

Another was added in the second inning, when Alexander, muffed Tanager's hit to right and he went to third, scoring on Harry Liebenorfer's single.

The local boys added four runs in the fourth, on a walk, and three hit batsmen, an error, and one hit. And Ellison, pitching his last out, finally fell apart in the fifth and sixth, when six more runs were added. Davidson and Ernie hurled the seventh and eighth for Sharpville, when seven runs came across to bring the total to 24. Andrews homered in the seventh, to drive in Baxter and Beran.

Badrik went on the mound for New Castle in the eighth, and White's homer over Tanner's head in center, accounted for two runs. He fanned three pinch hitters in the ninth, Murray, who hurled last night's game was the star of the contest with six snappy catches in center field.

New Castle plays the winner of the series between Ford City and New Kensington, which will start on Wednesday of next week. If three games are necessary to decide the contest, the third game will be played at Slippery Rock.

Twilight Tear, Pensive Tangle

Winner Of Kentucky Derby Faces Test In Twilight Tear At Chicago

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, July 22.—For the second time this week, it has been like getting a fourth at bridge to persuade enough starters to go to the post in order to make a horse race with the great Calumet pair, Twilight Tear and Pensive, only this time there's $50,000,000 worth of persuasion. And it still isn't working.

The occasion is the annual running of the Arlington classic today at a mile and a quarter and the Warren Wright-Calumet, early gives every indication of being the shortest-priced favorite in the history of this great race. In fact, while no official announcement has been made about public betting on the race, there is a feeling that the management will in effect declare itself more or less in the immortal outside manner.

"This one's on the house!" Lots of Betting

For, with the expected four or five-horse field, E. Plumbis Union will gang up around the Wright entry, cheerfully taking his sure dime profit on a dollar. If the betting windows are opened before the management will in effect declare itself more or less in the immortal outside manner.

Nelson-Geertsens Tourney Leaders

SALT LAKE CITY, July 22.—(INS)—Bryon Nelson of Toledo, O., and Johnny Geertsens of Port Douglas, were favored today to win the $2500 Utah open golf tournament after turning in identical scores of 67-five under par—to share medalist honors yesterday.

Dopedsters had figured it would be a two-man tourney, Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia vs. Nelson. Entries in the tourney played on the 6,575-yard Fort Douglas course numbered 121, including some of the nation's top-flight golfers.

Qualifying one stroke behind the leaders were Tony Penna, Dayton, O., and Leonard Dodson, Kansas City, Mo., with 68 each. McSpaden, who won Thursday's pro-amateur, carded a creditable 69 for fifth place. The tournament, over 72 holes will continue today and tomorrow when 36 holes will be played.

Navy Needs More Men At Once To Fill Bigger Quota

Youths Of 17 And Men Over 38 Years Of Age Will Be Accepted For Service

The Navy Department announced today that quotas on voluntary enlistments for young men between 17 and 18 and past 38 years have been increased. During recent months such quotas had been drastically curtailed, thus limiting the number of men who could be enlisted for voluntary service in the Navy.

In keeping with the enlarged quota, men who are physically, morally and mentally qualified may now apply for enlistment, providing they have passed their 17th birthday, but have not yet reached their 18th birthday; are not already enlisted in any other branch of service or reserve; and providing they are able to secure their parent's or guardian's written consent. Young men who wish to enter the Navy voluntarily must have their enlistment completed prior to their 18th birthday. After reaching that age they must enter the service through the selective service system.

Men who are accepted for voluntary enlistments in the Navy will be transferred to a Naval Training Center for indoctrination training and will then be assigned to a Naval School or to active duty where needed to facilitate their enlistment. Men should have with them at time of their application, either their birth or baptismal certificate showing proof of age.

All men in New Castle area should apply at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Bldg., New Castle, Pennsylvania.

Positions Are Open For Overseas Relief

Recruiting Director Of United Nations Relief And Rehabilitation To Be In Pittsburgh

Stenographers, financial experts, and executives are needed by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation association to handle the relief problem in liberated Europe, in charge of recruiting in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

Mr. Hutchinson will be in the New Federal building, Pittsburgh, from Tuesday, July 25, through Wednesday, August 2, to interview applicants for these positions. Executive positions will pay from $4,000 to $10,000 a year, plus allowances, and stenographical work will pay from $2,200 to $2,400 a year, plus allowances. Both positions require overseas service.

Executives who have dealt in the fields of planning, operating, or public relations, and especially men skilled in distribution are needed. UNRRA wants as few men as possible overseas, but the ones who go must be good. Only essential work will be done, and facilities not in existence before the war will not be built by UNRRA. Nothing will be done for any nation that it can do for itself, Mr. Hutchinson said.

Besides the experience qualifications, UNRRA has set a minimum age limit of twenty-five years for overseas work.

Soldiers Must Have Jobs, Says Governor Martin

ELKINS PARK, Pa., July 22.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin declared today that returning veterans must have jobs but not an relief projects and emphasized that opportunities would mean more to them than a bonus.

"Our politicians must remember that when they make grants to returning servicemen, more than half the money must finally be paid by these veterans themselves. In increased taxes," the governor said.

He called for "common sense" in considering free-spending projects.

"Few of us are working on plans for spending less money," he declared. "All the emphasis is on spending and more spending. We are all forgetting that regardless of what level of government furnishes money, it all comes out of the earnings and the pockets of the people."
